

UNESCO Chair WENDI presents

UNESCO Man and the Biosphere (MAB) Programme Special Lecture

“UNESCO MAB Programme: Learning Laboratories for achieving the UN Sustainable Development Goals”

Date: 8 December 2018

Venue: Kyoto University Higashi Ichijokan B1 Hall (Shishu-Kan hall)

Programme

13:30-13:45 Opening Address and Introduction to UNESCO Chair WENDI
Prof. Dr Kaoru Takara, Dean of GSAIS

13:45-13:55 Overview of UNESCO Man and the Biosphere (MAB) Programme
Mr Ryuichi Fukuoka, JASTIP Coordinator, CSEAS

13:55-14:15 Collaboration with the Biosphere Reserve and Society for the Field Work Course of Kyoto Univ. UNESCO Chair WENDI
Prof. Dr Mamoru Kanzaki (GS of Agriculture) and Prof. Dr Yousuke Yamashiki (GSAIS)

14:15-15:00 How can UNESCO MAB contribute to relink human and environment and to achieve the UN SDGs?
Prof. Dr Enny Sudarmonowati (LIPI), Chairperson of ICC-MAB

15:00-15:20 Discussion
15:20-15:30 Closing remarks

669 UNESCO biosphere reserves
réserves de biosphère de l'UNESCO
reservas de biosfera de la UNESCO
UNESCO-Biosphärenreservate

120 countries
pays países
Staaten

Prof. Dr Enny Sudarmonowati

Prof. Dr. Enny Sudarmonowati has been the Deputy of Life Sciences of Indonesian Institute of Sciences (LIPI) since 2014. Enny completed her Undergraduate education at the Bogor Agricultural University (IPB) and earned her doctorate in Plant Biotechnology from the University of Bath, UK in 1991. She was elected as Chairperson of the International Co-ordinating Council (ICC) of Man and the Biosphere Programme, the governing body of UNESCO-MAB programme, at the 30th UNESCO ICC-MAB meeting at Palembang, Indonesia in July 2018.